cal assessing officers. This was one of the reasons why the legislature extended the scope of operations and widened the powers of he state tax commission. It was contended that local assessing officers in the past have been too susceptible to local political influences.

While the other members of the senate have been out visiting the varlous state institution during the past week, Senator Robert Walter, of Trav erse City, has been sitting at his desk adjoining the senate from day to Senate Out of Business All of Last day and compiling figures tending to show that the senate's plan of visiting the various institutions before passing appropriation bills is a real good business proposition.

In 1913 the expense of sending the senate committees to visit the state institutions was $7,706.03, while the house members spent $1.593.53 making a total of $3,299.56. The senators object to the use of the word junket in connection with their trips to the state institutions as they claim that the days of the junket have passed. Years ago the members of the junketing committee not only received ten cents per mile while on the trips and have the temority to come forward at the same time had passes from the railroads, but some one generally furnished meals and entertainment These days are forever gone. When a member of the legislature goes on a trip now he received nothing from the state but actual traveling expenses.

Senator Walter says that any good business man would be willing to expend $3,500 to look over a proposition in various parts of the room and in a involving the expenditure of $12,000, 000, the approximately amount of the appropriations by the legislature two years ago.
